For sught that we know to the contrary all the gentlemen who are anare candidates for the unexpired term and for the new term both, except Governor Mckinney. As we understand ning March 4th, 1895,

Senate and House of Delegates gentlemen favorable to his candidacy. Where nominating conventions are held and leading Democrats. resolutions are passed, expressing the preference of the convention for a particular candidate, that action will almost infallibly bind that nominee; but where, for good reasons, no such expression of public opinion is made, the nominee will be left free to exercise his judgment and discretion. In some States, on some occasions, as in Illinois when Douglas and Lincoln were the candidates, senatorial seats have been made a pronounced issue, and all candidates for the legislature have been compelled to express themselves thereon. More recently, in Mississippi, there was another such canvass. It may be that in some counties and cities in this State this question may be made an open issue when nominations are made; in many others it will be made a "quiet issue." In the one case the candidate will be asked to speak out as to his preferences; in the other he will be quoted as friendly to this, that or the other man. In rare instances the candidate will be nominated and elected without any attempt being made to ascertain his preferences.

The Democratic party of Virginia are in no condition to make the senstorial que stion a State issue, though cities and counties may-and many certainly willdo with it as they please. Each locality will know how to deal with the legislative candidate seeking its support; but it is well to recollet that the senatorship question is not the only great question to be dealt with by our legislators. There are judges to be elected as well as senators, and not only judges, but many other, officers of high rank. We believe, too, that it is pretty well agreed on all hands that a new office shall be created and filled-that of State Librarian, to have charge of the Library when it is removed from the Capitol to the home now being erected for it in the Capitol Square, near where Franklin street is reached by Twelfth street.

Altogether there is this year particular occasion for each constituency to send here its wisest and best men. We expect to see the finest membership in the General Assembly that has been seen there in a decade, but we cannot honestly say that we expect to find the majority of members coming here uncommitted on the senatorship question.

and Other Weather Quacks.

The only weather prophets entitled to any credence are those in Washington City, whose business it is to make forecasts of the weather, and who are furnished by assistants scattered all over the United States with the data upon which such forecasts are founded. To know what the state of the thermometer is directly west of us to-day gives a hint as to what sort of weather we shall have here to-morrow.

To know in what directions and how fast the winds blow to-day is to know something that may assist you in your forecast for to-morrow. In fact the Weather Bureau has at its command all the facts which anybody could obtain anywhere in the United States as to what the weather is to be just shead of

But all the same, people will read HICKS' forecasts as if they were entitled to be regarded with respect, although they were made and printed last year. He has had very bad luck with his predictions this year. He can pretty safely predict cold spells in January, and hot spells in July; but he cannot go much further. How could he be expected to be anything but a quack?-he who has no new facts upon which to base his new forecasts.

The Weather Bureau makes a wrong forecast not once a week on an average-

The President and Bimetallism. Did Mr. Cockran, of New York, speak for the President when he declared in his speech of Saturday last in the House of Representatives that the silver men wanted to give the farmers 3711 grains of pure silver whilst he wanted to give them 631; grains? In other words, did Mr. Cockran want the coinage ratio between silver and gold increased to not less than 50 to 1? The silver bullion in the hands of the Government would, under such a law, shrink in value to an extent which would cause Uncle Sam a loss even greater than that indicated in Mr. Carlisle's letter touching this point. However, the declaration of Mr. Wilson, of West Virginia, a pet of President CLEVELAND's and the Chairman of the Committee on Ways The General Assembly meets on the and to keep silver on a parity with gold. first Wednesday in December next, and must be accepted as offsetting Mr. will soon thereafter choose a senator to Cockran's extravagant remark. The Hurricane's Track.

The hurricane, whose effects were felt here on Monday, originated in the West Indies and passed northeastwardly over Florida and Georgia, and the Carolinas, with damaging results, and also left its tracks in the Virginias in houses and trees blown down and in other property damaged.

In Georgia and South Carolina the storm was probably at its worst. It was on the wane when it reached North Caroling, and had lost much of its pristine vigor when it passed over the Virginias,

It was one of the very worst hurricanes seen in the South since that memorable one of 1881, which caused the loss of 400 lives in and about Savannah, Ga.

The first accounts of the damage done Sunday and Monday were exaggerated, but we are now in possession of enough information to show us how ferocious was its onslaught and how madly it played through fields and forests and towns and cities. There was loss of life and much destruction of property-the exact details of which are as yet inaccessible to us by reason of damage done to the telegraph wires-damage which hundreds of active men set to work yesterday to repair, but whose labors are as yet incomplete.

If we cannot make good claim to complete exemption from devastating $438.20. storms Virginians should at least rejoice that they do not suffer so badly as the people of some of the sections do from hurricanes, tornadoes, cyclones and all the other brood of wicked winds.

When the vote was taken on the pasof the Wilson bill-all amendments having been rejected-all the Virginia members voted "yea," except Messrs. Eres and Jones, who voted "nay." All the North Carolina members voted against repeal except Messrs. Bunn (Dem.) and SETTLE (Rep.), who voted for repeal.

Island Park the Piace to Play-New Players-Games This Afternoon. Now that the summer is nearly over it would be an excellent idea for the Tri-City League teams to resume their games at Island Park, as the evenings are much shorter and business men cannot afford to lose so much time going back and forth to Forest Hill. The cranks would turn out in full force if this change were made.

Why They Declined to Act.

(Correspondence of the Disptch)

Keysville, Va., Aug. 29—The two gentlemen here yesterday to investigate the alleged frauds at this precinct in the primary of July 15, declined to act, as reported in my telegram to the Dispatch of yesterday evening. The Jollowing is the resolution that they handed me and read to the audience:

Having been selected as two of the persons to meet at Keysville on the 28th day of August, the friends of the respective parties(Rice and Priddy) assembled pursuant to a notice. A question was raised as to our authority to act, there being only two present, Again the question was raised that none of the persons named could legally or properly act as Mr. Basil B. Gordon was not chairman when he selected us. The friends of Mr. H. C. Rice were then asked if they would abide the decision of the arbitration in the event that we did act. Three of the five who signed the paper presented to Mr. Gordon were present, and said that they would not, our selection was made by Hon. Basil Gordon, when, we do not know, but we received the letter announcing it after the State Convention. Whil we consider it competent for us to act, yet as a quorum of the five who signed the paper presented to act, as a quorum of the five who sidered to exceed the letter announcing it after the State Convention. (Henry Bulletin.)

Since the Democrats of Virginia have met in convention and have nominated their candidates for Governor, Lieutenant-Governor and Attorney-General there are no Tyler or Buford Democrats in Henry county—all are O'Ferrall men now. Henry county—all are O Ferrall men now.

This county was largely for O'Ferrall, and sent a solid delegation to the convention for him, still thee are some who favored the nomination of Colonel Buford, and a few who were Tyler men. They are to-day for the Democratic ticket as fixed by the Richmond convention, and they will be hard hitters in the ranks of their party till sundown on election day. They will not only struggle to carry the State, but they want to redeem Henry county which has so long occupied a position in the column of Republican counties. counties.
(Wytheville Dispatch.)

So far as we have been able to learn, the ticket gives general satisfaction to friends and enemies alike. It is a strong combination, and will win by a crushing majority. (Charlottesville Jeffersonian.)

Whatever may have been thought, be-fore the convention, of the availibility of O'Ferrall as a candidate, there can be no two opinions, now that the convention has recorde its judgment that the Con-gressman was and is the choice of the and pick your Fall suits from our immense assortment of stylish garments. Autumn won't wait for you, neither will the stock. You must come now or be a lonesome relic of summer. Relics may be interesting as curiosities, but don't make your attire a curiosity in clothing. All the same, our suits, although not relics, excite curiosity, because they are wonders in cut, style material, and price. Everybody's wondering how such goods can be sold at such figures. That's the secret of our success, and our fitness to hold the first place in the clothing trade.
